

Correction. . .

The BABES — Beginning Alcohol Basic Education Studies — was not developed by Cook Inlet Tribal Council as was incorrectly reported in the Tundra Times April 9. The program was developed in 1979 by a nursery school teacher, Maxine Willis, and recovering alcoholic Lottie Jones.

Rural Alaska Community Action Program is the coordinator of the program at the state level.