Angela Kameroff Joslyn

Angela Kameroff Joslyn first learned about Sheldon Jackson College from a graduate who lived in Marshall. Later, when the Marshall High School had their Career Fair and she talked to a representative who was there from SJC, she was sure that she wanted to attend college in Sitka, Alaska.

Sheldon Jackson has become a special place for Angle, as she likes to be called. She says it is not like any other college because you get to know everyone and have a sense of community. You can get a good education because the teachers are knowledgeable and have a great deal to offer. Because of using her native language much of the time at home, she has had some trouble with English. For this reason, the Learning Center as well as the tutors have been important to her. At the Learning Center, Angle has a place to study, access to computers and the opportunity to meet with tutors and professors to guide her in her studies.

SJC as another special charm for Angle. She met Sean Joslyn, who will graduate from Sheldon Jackson in May of this year with a degree in Secondary Education. She is now Mrs. Sean Joslyn.

Sean Plans to find a teaching job with one of the schools in Sitka so that they may stay in Sitka until Angle graduates. Each with a degree in their hand, they plan to go back to the Yukon Delta area to teach. Angle wants to learn more about her Eskimo culture and the Yupik language. She is into art and does painting. You will find her in the gym working out and perfecting her aerobics. Don't let that small physique fool you. She can handle herself. She's a weight lifter.
