

NPR program highlights Eskimo

"Eskimos: Far and Forgotten" is the topic of a radio program to be broadcast over KSKA (103 FM) on Wednesday, October 13 at 1 p.m.

Produced and distributed nationally by the National Public Radio network (NPR), the program explores the world of Bering Sea Eskimos and takes a look at their way of life, religious traditions, culture and art.

KSKA is a nonprofit, non-commercial station that presents an assortment of alternative cultural and informational programs.