

Arctic Pollution

Arctic Pollution

A University of California study of air pollution over the Arctic found that an air filter that turned totally black from soot in a day in New York City turned totally black in a week in Barrow, Alaska.