

Mr. Paddock held positions of leadership

Memorial services were held Nov. 8 at the Northern Light United Church in Juneau for well known Native leader Raymond E. Paddock Jr.

Mr. Paddock died Nov. 5 at the Alaska Native Medical Center in Anchorage following a brief illness. He was 52 years of age.

Born in Juneau, Mr. Paddock received his education at Sheldon Jackson High School and College and Washington State College. He also attended graduate school in Washington, D.C.

Following service in the U.S. Air Force, he worked for Sen. Mike Gravel as a legislative aide and for the U.S. Public Works Committee where he worked on various public works projects.

From 1973 to 1983 he served both as executive director and president of the Central Council, Tlingit and Haida Indian Tribes of Alaska. He managed a staff that grew from 27 to 130 and funds and investments that grew from $5.3 million to more than $11 million.

He later worked for the state of Alaska as a budget analyst and as a registered lobbyist for several Native organizations. Most recently he was working as a consultant on various projects for several urban and village corporations.

Mr. Paddock also served as an assemblyman for the City and Borough of Juneau from 1982 to 1983; director of Goldbelt Inc. from 1974 to 1982; co-chairman of the board for the Alaska Federation of Natives, 1979-80. He served as director for the Rural Alaska Community Action Program, Americans for Indian Opportunity, the Tlingit-Haida Fisheries Development Corp. and various other nonprofit boards. At the time of his death he was on the Northern Light Church Council in Juneau.

He is survived by his wife, Pauline; and children, Raymond III and Jason, both of Juneau, and Ruth, Robert, Ross, Richard and Randy, all of Spokane, Wash.

He is also survived by his father, Raymond E. Paddock Sr. of Tenakee Springs; sisters, Shirley Davis of Anchorage and Carol Jorgenson of Juneau; brother James Paddock of Minnesota; and by numerous relatives throughout Alaska and other states.

Burial was in the National Cemetery in Sitka.
