

At Fort Yukon—

Management Seminar

A three-day corporate management seminar was held in Fort Yukon for village corporate officers and directors in the Yukon Flats area, June 10-12.

Nancy James, Executive Director of Gwitcha Gwitchin Ginkye, recognized a need for management training in its area of jurisdiction. Eleven villages in the 3 G's area were invited to send representatives and the seminar was open to all who were interested.

Tanana Chiefs Conference, Inc., prime sponsor for Title III CETA Program, funded the participant expenses.

The University of Alaska, Fairbanks, Division of Continuing Education, developed the instructional package with the Assistance of Cooperative Extension Service.

The Alaska National Bank of the North, Fairbanks, Alyeska Investment Company and Small Business Administration donated the expertise of their personnel to ensure relevancy in two technical areas.

Topics covered included accounting fundamentals, services available from a bank, Minority Enterprise Small Business Investment Company (MESBIC) and Small Business Administration Programs, Payroll procedures and Payroll taxation.

Instructors were: Tom Bartlett, Accounting Department of the University of Alaska; David Atlee, Alaska National Bank of the North; Roy Goodman, Alyeska Investment Company; Sky Records, Small Business Administration; Pete Probasco, Cooperative Extension Service and Dapne Gustafson, Division of Continuing Education, University of Alaska.

Those attending included Louie John, Circle, Clyde Mayo, Rampart; Eddie James, Birch Creek; Richard Martin, Chalkyitsik; Paul Williams, Beaver; Elaine Solomon, Ruth Stevens, Susan Kelly, Julie Cadzow, Marilyn Alexander, Clarence Alexander, Steve Ginnis, Bill Fredson, Nancy Jame, Ft. Yukon.

The participants indicated that the seminar was very helpful. Three additional seminars have been requested covering such varied topics as office procedures, local government, insurance, taxation and conducting board and annual meetings.

If you are interested in a seminar to meet your specific business management needs, contact the Division of Continuing Education and Summer Sessions, University of Alaska, Fairbanks.