

The 22-foot Spanish Cross commemorating the deaths of an Alaska Bush pilot and three Spanish journalists during the 1980 Iditarod race will finally stand in Anchorage.

After 3½ years of design changes, delivery confusion and intense siting difficulties, the 17,000-pound granite gift from the people of Spain has found a permanent home in the Tudor Center. The Spanish-

Famed Bush pilot, Warren "Ace" Dodson, eminent Spanish journalist Dr. Rodriguez de la Fuente and two of Madrid's finest cameramen, Teodoro Roa and Alberto Huescar perished in a Cessna 185 tragedy in Shaktoolik while filming the Iditarod race on March 14, 1980.
