

Rita Hartman, 56, died Nov. 14, 1990

Funeral services for Rita Hartman, 56, were held recently at Evergreen Memorial Chapel-Downtown. The Rev. Michael Curtis of Anchorage Native Assembly officiated. Burial was in Anchorage Memorial Park.

Mrs. Hartman died Nov. 14 at the Alaska Native Medical Center. She was born in Pt. Barrow on Dec. 7, 1933, and moved to Kotzebue in the early 1940s where she was raised.

She moved to Anchorage in 1965 where she lived until her death. She was well known as a Native craftsper-son, specializing as a dollmaker which she did for more than 25 years.

She enjoyed traveling the Alaska Highway system. Her favorite hymn was "Where the Roses Never Fade."

Survivors include two daughters, Brenda M. Wolf of Milwaukee, Wis., and Faye Paneok of Anchorage; two sons, Aaron Paneok Jr. and John Paneok, both of Anchorage; her mother, Sarah Evak of Kotzebue; three sisters, Berniece Burgandie of Chugiak, Carrie and Lottie Evak, both of Kotzebue; seven brothers, Riley, Carl, Johnny Jr., Jimmy, Roy, Enoch and David Evak, all of Kotzebue.

She also had three grandsons, Charles and Robert Evak, both of Kotzebue, and Marc Wolf of Milwaukee; and one granddaughter, Shawna Wolf, also of Milwaukee, as well as numerous aunts, uncles, nieces and nephews throughout Northwestern Alaska.
