Comfish Alaska, the annual trade show of the fishing industry on Kodiak Island, will be held March 15, 16 and 17, 1991, according to Linda Kozak and Chris Bublitz, co-chairs of the committee organizing the event.

Comfish Alaska, is a production of the Kodiak Chamber of Commerce. This will be the 11th annual Kodiak trade show of commercial fishing buyers and exhibitors.

Comfish Alaska has become Alaska's largest commercial fishing industry show, held in Alaska's largest fishing port.

The 1991 show will be held in the U.S. Coast Guard Hanger III at the Kodiak Coast Guard Air Station.

The 1991 show will have booths available for exhibitors.

"The three-day event provides a showcase for marine equipment suppliers to present their products and services on a one-to-one basis to captains, crew members, vessel owners and others involved in Kodiak's commercial fishing industry," said Kozak.

The 1990 show had 143 companies with more than 500 exhibitors, while show attendance topped 7,000.
