

Native crafts fair

In celebration of Native American Heritage Month, the Bureau of Land Management sponsored a Native Arts and Crafts Fair in Anchorage recently. Among those there selling crafts was Ruth Koweluk, above, with two of the fur dolls she made. Other photos, moving clockwise, include a Santa doll made by Helen Shwooko Carius; Robert Savage, selling dolls and other crafts made by his mother, Ellen Savage; and Mary Kuku from Twin Hills, weaving a grass basket.

photos by Barbara Crane

