

The beautiful way to keep warm.

goes beyond their distinctive appearance. Lindal Homes are also designed to save energy. For instance, the unique cavity-wall construction in a Lindal Home acts as a thermal barrier against extreme outside temperatures.

To reduce your energy bills even more, Lindal has other optional features like Polar Cap Roofs, Polar Walls and Polar Floors — all with sufficient R-values to withstand the coldest and hottest climates. In every Lindal Home, thermal windows are standard, of course.

Every Lindal Home is designed to reflect your personality and lifestyle, with unique features like cathedral ceilings and open post and beam interiors that relieve "cabin fever" and give you lots of room to breathe.

THE HEARTBEATS OF ALASKA WILL BE HEARD IN LOS ANGELES.

"Heartbeats of Alaska: Native Games and Dance" is going to the Olympic Arts Festival in Los Angeles.

Held in conjunction with the 1984 Summer Olympic Games, the Olympic Arts Festival is one of the most outstanding opportunities to proudly display our Native Alaskan cultural and athletic heritage to people from around the world.

The 43 singers, dancers and athletes that make up the "Heartbeats of Alaska" will be heard in Los Angeles, but they can be heard even louder with your added support and contributions.

Please send your tax deductible contributions today to, World Eskimo-Indian Olympics, Inc., P.O. Box 2433, Fairbanks, AK 99707.

Support the World Eskimo-Indian Olympics, Inc.

Major funding for "Heartbeats of Alaska: Native Games and Dance" is provided by ARCO Alaska, Inc., Alaska Airlines, and Arctic Slope Regional Corporation.
