

Board of Game to consider seasons, limits for big game

The Alaska Board of Game will begin its spring meeting March 30 in the Anchorage Hilton Hotel, considering statewide proposals on seasons and bag limits for harvest of big game.

In addition, the board will consider a packet of regulation reform proposals offered by the Alaska Department of Fish and Game. The proposals are part of the continuing effort to

(Continued on Page Fourteen)

photo by M.A. Kruiser

Steve Behnke spoke to the Joint Board of Fisheries and Game in Anchorage.

• Fish Board to meet April 9

(Continued from Page One)

proposals in the Fish and Game Headquarters conference room, 1255 West Eighth St. April 16-19.

The Board of Fisheries confined this meeting's agenda to the issues which members feel must be resolved prior to the 1987 fishing seasons.

Members of the board were concerned that at this late date, the public might not be able to participate fully in major allocation issues.

Also the board was reluctant to address proposals concerning fisheries which will have begun prior to the date new regulations could be in place and was concerned that possible changes in regulations cannot be published for this season.

The board will set its agenda for the fall meeting prior to adjournment of the spring meeting.

---