

February Edition

In the February Special Tundra Times Edition, founding editor Howard Rock writes of the memories of dogs and dog mushing from boyhood days of village life (in two parts of his award-winning "Arctic Survival" series of articles); Iditarod racer Shelley Vandiver authors the editorial, below, and tells of her gratitude for hospitality shown her by villages along the race trail; Photographer Andy Klamser gives a view of the "Incorporated Eskimos" of the north slope who are building a new Barrow; and Steve Kirshbaum and Christopher Arend provide a look at the art of Eskimo sewing. For the convenience of visitors at the Fur Rendezvous, a schedule of events is also provided.
