

Vernon Forbes Appointed Liaison Man

JUNEAU—Governor Keith H. Miller has appointed Vernon D. Forbes of Fairbanks as Northern Civilian Liaison to the Military for the State of Alaska.

James Curley of Anchorage already holds a similar post in Anchorage.

In announcing the latest appointment, Miller said, "I am sure Mr. Forbes will contribute much to the State in this capacity, and his work as liaison will be of benefit to all Alaskans."

To Alaska, Canada Villages— To Tailor Housing Programs

JUNEAU—Governor Keith H. Miller, Senator Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, and Robert H. Schenker, executive director of the Alaska State Housing Authority, have asked the Department of Housing and Urban Development to send representatives to Alaska to help tailor existing housing programs to meet Alaska's needs.

The action was taken after Senator Stevens said he had been informed that HUD had expressed a willingness to modify existing housing programs to permit construction of housing in remote villages of Alaska.

The program as it exists now, is unworkable in remote areas of Alaska. Miller said the exclusion of funds from the budget for Fiscal Year 1971 for special programs will preclude continuation of the remote housing program.

Miller said he hoped George Romney, Secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, would send representatives to Alaska to help devise regulations necessary to meet the housing needs of rural Alaskans.

Planning Firm Installs Bob Arnold as Officer

BOB ARNOLD

ANCHORAGE — Anderson-Lawrence Associates, Inc. of Washington, D.C. announced the opening of their Alaskan office at 108 E. Third Avenue, Anchorage.

Bob Arnold of Anchorage, former Federal Field Committee for Development Planning in Alaska planning officer, will head their Alaskan operation.

Anderson-Lawrence provides social and economic program planning, operation, and evaluation for industry and government. This young and growing firm has offices in Los Angeles, Washington, D.C. and Philadelphia, and runs programs in Canada as well as the above-named cities.

Arnold, 37, a long-time Alaskan resident, served three years with the Federal Field Committee prior to being named Alaskan manager for Anderson-Lawrence.

He co-authored "Alaska Natives and Federal Hire" and "Alaska Natives and the Land," as well as contributing numerous papers on Alaska development during his Field Committee tenure.

Prior to that he served as an aide for former Congressman Ralph Rivers and the Late Senator E.L. "Bob" Bartlett.

Arnold, presently Chairman of the Anchorage Borough School Board's Budget Advisory Committee, is also a member of the Anchorage Welcome Center's Board of Directors.

He lives with his wife Ann and four children at 2304 West Marston Drive, Anchorage.

UA Regents to Have One Day Meet Tomorrow

COLLEGE—The University of Alaska Board of Regents will have a special one-day meeting on Thursday, tomorrow, April 16, at 9 a.m. in the Regent's Board room on campus.

Under discussion will be a review of capital improvements, budgetary matters, university investment of funds from non-tax sources, and faculty housing.

Chauthbaluk May Have P.O.

The Post Office Department will establish a rural contract branch in the vicinity of Chauthbaluk, formerly Little Russian Mission in Southwest Alaska, if a reasonable bid can be obtained and the successful bidder is able to furnish a surety bond of $3,000.

In announcing the possibility, Sen. Ted Stevens said, "I am pleased that I was able to assist in persuading the Post Office of the importance of establishing this rural branch post."
