Hillcrest Home for Boys has gained some new benefactors, seventy-five of them in fact.

The residents of Nerland Hall at the University of Alaska recently voted unanimously to contribute $75 to Hillcrest, a Fairbanks social agency housing 11 Alaskan youths ranging in age from 13 to 18.

The college students formerly contributed to an international orphan program, but voted to increase their contribution this year and donate the money to an Alaskan social agency.

Hillcrest Home was established in 1966 to care for Alaskan youths from broken homes. The boys in the home all attend Fairbanks schools.
