

Phone counseling service available

A group of experienced Alaskan clinicians have joined together to provide round-the-clock counseling service that operates entirely by phone. Telephone Counseling of Alaska Inc. offers professional confidential consultations.

Organizers Jan MacClarence and Bruce Yates have been working in the counseling, crisis intervention and prevention fields for 36 years. Yates said that Alaskans have a unique need for this service.

Counseling fees are paid either with an individual's credit card, an Employee Assistance Program or Native Corporation's Member Assistance Program. For further information or to speak with a counselor call (Anchorage) 277-TALK (8255) or Toll-Free 1-800-214-TALK (8255). Yates can explain the Employee Assistance Program and the Member Assistance Program by calling him at 1-907-345-9717.
