

Drug-free band plays in Yukon-Kusko Delta region

There's a band in the Yukon-Kuskokwim region and they bring entertainment to the eyes and ears of Toksook Bay residents every Saturday night at the community hall. The Ivory Band, consisting of Felix Lincoln, Paul Moses, Willie John, John Lincoln, Charlie Chimiugak and Paul Jumbo, play country, country rock, and good old rock & roll music to a preferably alcohol and drug-free audience.

Some of the songs are original pieces written by band members making the Ivory Band unique in the Yukon-Kusko Delta region. Their songs have topics about being together, the Kusko 300 dog race, and commercial fishing in Bristol Bay.

For information about how to book the group to play in your community, call (907) 427-7613 or by writing to: PO Box 37103, Toksook Bay, Alaska 99637.
