

MarkAir offers roundtrip tickets to '89 graduates

MarkAir will again award each high school graduating senior with a travel award good for one roundtrip ticket on MarkAir's system, according to MarkAir spokesmen.

The popular program, which began in 1986, was cancelled last year due to a sluggish economy and budgetary constraints.

"With the encouraging increase in business activity beginning to appear this year, the program is being reinstated," said Larry Anderson, vice president of marketing and sales.

"Travel Certificates" are now being prepared from the lists of graduating seniors sent in by each participating high school throughout the state and will be returned to the school for distribution at graduation time.

Since the program began, more than 4,000 Alaskan graduates have taken advantage of the gift from MarkAir.
