

Chevak Asks Book Donations

By DORA M. NAYAMIN
Library Committee
Chevak, Alaska

On the 12th of July, the four girls of Neighborhood Youth Corps, Dora M. Nayamin, Mary M. Usugan, Helen M. Martins and Teresa M. Atchak of Chevak, opened the Chevak Public Library located at the corner of the village hall.

The library is for all. It opens at 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon; afternoon from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m., Monday through Friday.

During that time the school children, ages from four to 12 years, enjoy playing games, reading, indoor and outdoors activity sponsored by the NYC employees supervised by VISTA Volunteer, Tom Taranto.

Other seven NYC boys are working on canal which is located about 15 miles off from Chevak.

The boys are: Ignatius Chayalkun, Paul Ayuluk, Xavier Nayagak, Pius Imgalrea, David Ulroan, Moses Cholok and Joseph Ayagarak. They are supervised by VISTA Volunteer, John Shefelbine.

All the NYC employees are 16 to 21 years of age.

The Field Representative of NYC project from Bethel, Jeff Keyon, comes periodically to see how the program is coming along. "The big man of NYC employees" is whispered teasingly from one to the other.

The library consist of about 500 books. We have received donations of books from Alaska State Library, VISTA Book Kit, and Department of State Library.

We would very much appreciate donations from anybody, any interested clubs and organizations (women's clubs—men's clubs) or anybody who wants to help us, please write and the address is: Chevak Public Library, Chevak, Alaska 99563.