JUNEAU—Chief Justice Buell Nesbett administered the oath of office of Governor to Keith H. Miller recently, officially making him the third governor of Alaska since statehood. The ceremony took place in the Superior Courtroom of the State Capitol at Juneau. The courtroom was packed with legislators, department heads, well-wishers and friends of the Millers.

William G. Dunbar of Troop 9 Represents Midnight Sun Council

It was announced today that Eagle Scout William G. Dunbar of Troop 9 sponsored by 5010th Air Force Hospital at Eielson Air Force Base will represent the Midnight Sun Council, Boy Scouts of America in the "Report to the Governor Ceremonies" to be held today in Juneau, Alaska.

Scout Dunbar will be joined by Scouts from the Western Alaska Council and Eastern Alaska Council in the Report to Governor Keith Miller. Each of the Scouts will give the Governor both written and oral reports on the progress of the Scouting program in their council and throughout the State of Alaska in 1969. (Similar ceremonies are being held in each of the other 49 State Capitals.)

Eagle Scout Dunbar is the son of T/Sgt. and Mrs. William Dunbar of 5213-D Kodiak Eielson Air Force Base. Scout Dunbar also holds the Bronze and Gold Plams and the God and Country Award.

He is a Senior at Ben Eielson High School. He was selected from a group of high ranking Scouts who applied for this hon-

Canadian Singers

Canadian folk singers Jim Johnson and Harry Aoki will appear in concert Sunday, Feb. 9 at 8 p.m. in Schiabe Auditorium on the University of Alaska Campus.

Their performance, sponsored by UA's special events committee, features a potpourri of international folk music mellowed by the Canadians' semi-classical style and is open to the public without charge.

Johnson, a Negro guitarist, and Aoki, a Japanese bassist, reflect on man's history, his troubles, his loves, and his aspirations in their show, "The Moods of Man."

The performers come to Fairbanks from Vancouver, B.C. where Johnson taught in rural schools and Aoki instructed skiers before they met and began their singing career.

They have toured throughout Canada, sponsored by the British Columbian government, and have recorded for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's radio international series as well as its "All Canadian Talent" laboratory. They also co-hosted their own television series in Canada.

or of reporting to the Governor. Dunbar's trip to Juneau is being sponsored by the Chena Kiwanis Club of Fairbanks. A report of his visit with Governor Miller and the trip will be given to the Chena Kiwanis Club at a later date.
