BEFORE THE ALASKA PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION
(Docket U-69-24)

Notice is hereby given that on September 26, 1969 RCA ALASKA COMMUNICATIONS, INC. made application to the Alaska Public Service Commission pursuant to Alaska Statutes 42.05.193-196 for Certificates of Public Convenience and Necessity authorizing it to furnish public utility telephone and telegraph service within the State of Alaska.

The Certificates of Public Convenience and Necessity applied for would authorize RCA Alaska Communications, Inc. to provide telephone and telegraph communication services, as hereinafter described, by means of radio, cable, wire, satellite and other means now or in the future developed for the reception and transmission of messages, impressions, pictures and signals by means of electricity, electromagnetic waves and any other kind of energy force variations or impulses whether conveyed by cable or wire, radiated through space or transmitted through other media.

The Telephone Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity would authorize RCA Alaska Communications, Inc. to provide long-lines and toll telephone services of all types including, but not limited to, toll message service over facilities connected to local central offices, rural telephone exchange service, farmer line telephone service, semi-public toll service, private line telephone service, wide area telephone and wideband telephone services, direct distance dialing service, interconnection and message switching service, foreign exchange service, conference service, mobile telephone service, leased channels for voice and record services, datel and data phone service, telex service, TWX service, facsimile service, data communication service, and communication services for radio, television, and CATV broadcasts. The authorization would also include bush telephone service to small, isolated communities, including those located in the service areas of local telephone exchanges, subject to mutually satisfactory operating agreements and under such terms as the Commission may set forth.

The Telegraph Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity applied for would authorize RCA Alaska Communications, Inc. to offer to the public telegraph services of all types including, but not limited to, agent station telegraph service, message telegraph service, marine and coastal telegraph services, telegraphic money order service, telex service, facsimile service, leased teleprinter channel service, data communications services, and interconnection and message switching service.

The telephone and telegraph authority requested will be exercised between all points within Alaska as generally set forth in the documents entitled "Routes of Intrastate Long-Lines and Toll Communication" and "Legal Descriptions of Areas to be Used" accompanying the application, and all persons are hereby placed on notice that such points may include any point within the State of Alaska. The above referred to accompanying documents of the applicant should be consulted by any person to determine if the applied for authority will affect his interests.

More detailed information concerning the above application may be obtained from the Alaska Public Service Commission, 700 MacKay Building, 338 Denali Street, Anchorage, Alaska 99501.

All persons having an interest in or desiring to protest the granting of the above described authority must file with the Commission a statement of such interest or protest on or before November 10, 1969 at 4:30 p.m. Such statement of interest or protest must also be accompanied by proof of service of the statement upon RCA Alaska Communications, Inc. at the following address:
