

Members needed for wildfire panel

Interior Secretary Manuel Lujan is seeking nominations for the National Commission on Wildfire Disasters. The commission is charged with studying the effects of disastrous wildfires on resources and affected communities.

The 25-member commission will be made up of 12 members appointed by Lujan and 13 members appointed by the secretary of the Department of Agriculture. Nominations must be received by Tuesday.

Nominations can be sent to: Director, Bureau of Land Management, Division of Fire and Aviation Management (WO-740), 1849 C St. NW, Washington, D.C. 20240.

The commission will review existing fire-related policies and make recommendations to aid in the effective and efficient recovery of fire-affected resources and communities.
