

CROWNING THE QUEEN—Judy Ramos, 19-year-old from Yakutat, and previous winner of Miss Cook Inlet Native Association, won the title of "Miss World Eskimo-Indian Olympics 1978." In the above photograph, Alaska Governor Jay Hammond is shown looking at Miss Ramos' trophy. Others are, left to right, Carol Johnson, 19, of Nome, and Miss Arctic Native Brotherhood of Nome, Julie John, 18, of Fort Yukon, and Miss Fort Yukon; Millie Booth, 23, of Kotzebue, and Miss Fairbanks Native Association. Millie was first runner-up in the "Miss World Eskimo-Indian Olympics"; Melinda Lord, 18, of Barrow, and Miss Top of the World. Melinda was second runner-up in the "Miss World Eskimo-Indian Olympics"; Governor Hammond; Judy Ramos, who not only won the title of queen, but that of "Miss Congeniality" as well; Christina Douglas, 21, of Shungnak, and Miss Kobuk Valley; Margie Gumlickpuk, 18, of Dillingham, and Miss Dillingham; Ahka Bernhardt, 18, of Kobuk, and Miss Arctic Circle. Ahka was also voted "Miss Photogenic."

A Lens Unlimited Photo by Stu Rothman