We goofed

This writer is looking for a rock to crawl under.

There were a couple of fairly substantial errors in our last (October 26) issue which our readers should know about.

First of all, when we expressed our regret at the passing of Bud Hagberg, long-time Wien employee, officer and director, and a friend of Alaska Natives, we incorrectly identified his mother as Laura Wright Hagberg. She is actually Laura Hagberg Wright, who is well known for the beautiful parkas which she makes in her Anchorage shop.

Second, due to a misunderstanding, we must correct our story on the Koniag, Inc. shareholders meeting. Contrary to our report, Koniag officers, chosen by the board are: Jack Wick, president, chairman of the board and executive director; Karl Armstrong, executive vice president and secretary and Harry Carter, vice-president.

On both counts, we plead guilty and express our sincerest apologies.
