

Native Health Board to hold seminar

- The Alaska Native Health Board and Alaska Federation of Natives are sponsoring a Statewide Native Health Conference on October 18, 19 at the Sheraton Anchorage Hotel.
- The conference theme, "Who Is Going to Provide Health Care to Alaska Natives?" will focus on self-care and disease prevention.
- Many exciting and innovative workshops will be held by experts on positive health practices that can lead to better and longer lives.
- A health fair will be held the first day — providing participants with physical screening and learning centers on exercise, substance abuse and sexual responsibility, to name just a few.
- The two day event will conclude with a banquet honoring an outstanding health worker from each of the twelve regions.
- Please register now, using the form provided, if you plan to stay at the Sheraton Anchorage Hotel while attending the conference.
