

Colloquium in Paris

PARIS, France--A colloquium of librarians, archivists, museum experts, and film representatives will gather on September 19, 1978 for a week of discussions on the state of "arctic documentation." The Seventh Northern Library Colloquy is sponsored by the Centre d'Etudes Arctiques (Center of Arctic Studies) at the Centre National de la Recherche Scientifique (National Center for Scientific Research), and will be hosted by noted anthropologist

Jean Malaurie.

"One aim of the Colloque," said Malaurie, "is for the North American specialist to promote the knowledge of arctic documentation in European libraries and museums and conversely."

If you are interested in an informative trip to Paris in the fall, contact the Seventh Northern Libraries Colloquy, Centre d'Etudes Arctiques, 6 rue de Tournon, 75006 Paris, France, before June 30.
