

Native Press seeks papers

The American Native Press Research Association is seeking papers on any aspect of American Indian and Alaska Native publishing, including its history, its editors and the issues it addresses.

The association will hold the Fourth Annual Meeting of American Native Press Research Association at the University of Alaska Fairbanks March 17-18, 1988.

Inquiries should be directed to the program chairman: David A. Hales, Associate Professor of Library Science, Elmer E. Rasmuson Library, University of Alaska Fairbanks 99775-1011.

Abstracts for proposed papers are to reach Hales by Jan. 1, 1988.

Those planning to attend the conference should make their plans early, sponsors said, because Fairbanks is host to the 1988 Arctic Winter Games, March 13-20, 1988.

Inquiries about the American Native Press Research Association or annual dues should be sent to the secretary: Johnye Strickland, Department of English, University of Arkansas at Little Rock, 2801 S. University, Little Rock, Ark. 72204.
