Nick Tucker Joins Honor Society

Nicholas C. Tucker, 19-year-old Eskimo senior student at Monroe High School in Fairbanks, was one of the ten students selected to join the National Honor Society last month.

His GPA (grade point average) was 3.33 for seven semesters. He modestly admitted that he has been getting A's and B's most of the time.

Upon graduation, Nick plans to enter the University of Alaska for two years. He said he was interested in electrical engineering, business administration and accounting.

"I may even take up political science," he said.

Nick wants to spend his final two years in college "somewhere outside." He said he will come back to Alaska upon completion of his education and work on whatever he is trained for.

Nick is from Emmonak, Alaska, on the Lower Yukon.
