

Bishop, Dentist, and Agency Representatives Visit Grayling

By WALTER MAULLELLE

Here I am again. I just thought I'd write another newsletter about Grayling even though we don't have much news since I last wrote.

Grayling is just like winter yet. It's the month of May now. We have very little water on the river at this time.

The second week in April, all the men went up the Yukon, about the 11th, to cut more logs for Grayling homes. Five hundred logs were cut.

Richard Bowlby from the Alaska State Housing Authority made a short visit to Grayling in the first part of April.

Riley Nicholi went to Anchorage. He now ~~is~~ working on the Alaska Railroad.

James Walker made his short visit to Grayling also in April. Walker was hiring boys to work for Alaska Packers down around the Bristol Bay area.

Bishop Gordon made his annual visit here in the first part of April. We had a little party with the Bishop while he visited. We had some cake, pie, cola, and doughnuts.

The Rev. Ken Hughes stopped in to pick up David Penz, Bede Deacon, and Thelma Deacon for conference at Kaltag.

The women had a bake sale May 1. $63.90 was raised at this sale. It went for the dentist's fare. The dentist and his assistant came on May 3 with the Samuelson Flying Service.

We also had a short visit from some BLM people.
