160 New Homes Completed for S. E. Villages

KETCHIKAN Robert Loesch, executive director of the Tlingit-Haida Regional Housing Authority, announced Oct. 13 the completion of the first 10 of a total of 160 new homes for Southeastern Alaska villages.

Loesch said 10 families in the village of Saxman, southeast of Juneau, have accepted keys to new single family homes, ranging in size from two to five bedrooms.

Under phase one of the Tlingit-Haida Turnkey Three project, subsidized by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, a total of 160 houses are being built, for Saxman, Angoon, Hoonah, Hydaburg, Klak-work and Kake. The Saxman project alone includes 20 homes and a community hall.

Phase two will include another 200 homes.
