

No. Alaska May Be in Line for Two House Committee Chairmanships

The Tundra Times has learned that Interior and Northern Alaska may be in line to receive as many as two committee chairmanships in the new State House of Representatives.

Indications have also been that the bush may also receive a member on the all important House Finance Committee.

Reportedly high on the possible list for Chairman of the Health, Education, and Welfare Committee is Representative-elect Don Young, R-Fort Yukon, and indications are that Representative-elect John Sackett, R-Huslia, may receive a Finance Committee appointment.
