

St. Mary's Teach Day a hit

Late last month, the seniors at St. Mary's Catholic High School participated in the annual Senior Teach Day.

Senior Teach Day is a day on which the seniors get a chance to teach the students. Each senior replaces a teacher and assumes their responsibilities for a whole day.

Questions were asked of some of the seniors: "How is it, being a secretary?" Addie Stevens replied, "It's busy, too much running around. But it's fun. I like it!" When Cyril Pete was asked, "How was your day as principal?" he replied, "It's hard work but fun." The question, "How was your teaching day?" brought the responses, "Fun, challenging and great! It was a good experience for me! It has also been the longest day in school."

Those seniors who participated were: Morris Alstrom, I. John Charlie, Noreen Day, Nina Dozette, Alice Edwards, Olga Edwards, Cathy Elia, George Fancyboy, Alice Martins, Leona Moses, George Owletuck, Cyril Pete, John Sallison, Greg Slats, Patrick Soolook, and Addie Stevens.
