

Editorial Comment—

TT got cornered

In a corner

The busy little staff of the Tundra Times got cornered into a corner mostly by the on-rushing of holiday season. The editor decided to skip one issue and give the group a little breathing spell. We are happy, however, that we will have the same number of issues published for the year of 1975 by publishing this issue on Dec. 31, 1975.

The out-going year, as ever before, has been an eventful one, not the earth-shaking type but an interesting one. We are thankful for this and it has left us with a steady breath with which we sincerely extend our wishes for a great New Year for everyone of our readers and friends everywhere.

Thank you for your faith in us.

—H.R.