DIRECTOR

North Slope Higher Education Center

The North Slope Higher Education Center (NSHEC) invites nominations and applications for the position of Director. The NSHEC is a newly established locally controlled and funded public postsecondary institution serving the educational and professional needs of Alaska's North Slope Borough. It is currently in its first semester of operation. The Center provides a wide range of in-service, certificate, and baccalaureate programs and degrees.

The center offers academic credit and related degrees through the University of Alaska Fairbanks (UAF). NSHEC faculty receive affiliate UAF faculty appointments and all courses meet at least minimum UAF standards. It is called the North Slope Higher Education Center, because, at present, it does not have independent status as an accredited institution of higher education. As a goal, the NSHEC will maintain such an affiliate accreditation relationship until some point in the future, when it will seek its own independent accreditation.

The Director reports to a Board of Directors, comprised of seven members, who are nominated by the communities located within the Borough's 88,000 square mile jurisdiction and confirmed by the Borough Assembly.

Duties and Responsibilities:

As the leader of the NSHEC, the Director must possess a high degree of professional competence, coupled with authentic sensitivity to the shifting needs and demands of a non-traditional educational institution. The Director needs to exhibit considerable cross-disciplinary skill and expertise in order to refine and foster an organization that operates with academic integrity and cultural respect. The Director is responsible for:

1. The overall functioning of the NSHEC, by demonstrating leadership and expertise in the academic, administrative, and fiscal spheres;
2. Maintaining a culturally-sensitive climate supportive of teaching, learning, student-development, scholarship, research, and service;
3. Providing open and effective channels of communication among the departments and faculty within the NSHEC, as well as with the institutions, organizations, and individuals that comprise its clientele;
4. Serves as the major liaison with the University of Alaska-Fairbanks;
5. The preparation, implementation, and evaluation of the Center's budget and fiscal policies;
6. Recruitment, appointment, evaluation, promotion, and termination of all NSHEC personnel;
7. Articulating the policies, needs, and accomplishments of the NSHEC to the larger university structures, as well as the internal/external publics; and
8. Teaching at least one course per semester within his/her field of specialization.

Qualifications:

1. An earned doctorate in an appropriate field of study;
2. Demonstrated commitment to and understanding of higher education within a non-traditional education setting;
3. Demonstrated commitment to local/community control and direction of educational programming within non-traditional settings;
4. Extensive knowledge of educational theories, trends, ideas, and resources, especially as they apply to non-traditional Native American, rural, and for field-based programs;
5. Solid understanding of and demonstrated commitment of the maintenance of Native American values, traditions, and institutions;
6. Commitment to and understanding of the centrality of teaching and scholarship within a community context;
7. Commitment to student growth and development and the demonstrated ability to recognize special student needs;
8. Extensive knowledge of fund-raising, grant-writing, and educational-development activities;
9. Excellent communication skills in both formal and informal settings;
10. Demonstrated competence in management of fiscal affairs;
11. Well-developed interpersonal skills and acute sensitivities required to relate to diverse publics;
12. Personal style characterized by integrity, flexibility, and honesty;
13. Extensive college teaching experience;
14. Extensive experience in distance delivery of courses and programs.

Preferred Qualifications

1. Bilingual (English/Inupiaq).
2. Extensive knowledge of the geographic, climatic, and political conditions of the North Slope of Alaska, or other Arctic areas.

4. Experience in Native American, multi-cultural, or bi-cultural situations.

Salary Range: commensurate with experience.

Interested Candidates should submit:

1. A personal letter indicating interest in the position outlining experience and special competencies for the position;
2. A current resume;
3. Five professional references sent directly to the Search Committee; and
4. University placement/credential files.

Application materials should be sent to:

Chairperson, Director Search Committee
North Slope Higher Education Center
P.O. Box 69
Barrow, Alaska 99723

Deadline for receipt of applications: January 15. The successful candidates should expect to assume the position no later than May 15.

The North Slope Higher Education Center is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer and educational institution. Your application for employment with the NSHEC may be subject to Public Disclosure, if you are selected as a finalist.

Positions Readvertised

The North Slope Higher Education Center (NSHEC) is a recently created institution, with its administrative offices in Barrow, Alaska. The NSHEC will provide post-high school academic education, and will develop a range of university accredited in-service, certificate and degree programs that will help meet the educational needs of the North Slope residents.

It is called the North Slope Higher Education Center, because, at present, it does not have independent status as an accredited institution of higher education. However, for academic purposes, it has its status as an affiliate of the University of Alaska-Fairbanks (UAF). All academic credits, certificates, programs and degrees would come through the UAF. The NSHEC would have the accreditation of the UAF and therefore, must satisfy the academic standards of the UAF. As a goal, the NSHEC will maintain such a satellite accreditation relationship until some point in the future, when it will seek its own independent accreditation. The NSHEC is an autonomous management unit of the North Slope Borough under the control of the North Slope Higher Education Board.

The North Slope Borough, with its 88,000 square miles of territory and approximately 9,000 people, occupies most of the Alaskan Arctic. It is the largest regional municipality in the United States and encompasses eight Inupiat villages, as well as the Putoroff Bay/Kuparuk petroleum complexes.

The NSHEC is seeking applications for an Academic Coordinator. The coordinator will live in Barrow, but frequent travel to the other villages will be required. The coordinator should have multiple interests and expertise, a commitment to the development of a locally controlled higher education institution, strong scholarly promise, a sense of the importance of community-oriented applied research, and cross-cultural experience.

Qualifications

- Earned doctorate or ABD with significant experience in developing institutions, cross-cultural situations, and academic administrative experience.
- Interdisciplinary background in preferably more than one of the following areas: social science, international development and education, education or an area of humanities, and management.
- Ability to meet the University of Alaska-Fairbanks requirements for a faculty appointment.
- Demonstrated ability to work in cross-cultural situations, particularly with Native American groups.
- Experience with Alaska Native People or other Americans.
- Ability to teach a wide spectrum of courses within areas of expertise.
- Demonstrated interest and ability in community-oriented applied research.
- Classroom teaching experience.

Preferred Qualities

- Prior experience with field based or distance delivered programs in rural cross-cultural settings.
- Interest in learning the Inupiaq language and actively participating in the sociocultural activities of the Inupiat communities.
- Experience in counseling students.

Salary Range

- Commensurate with experience.

Application

—Letters of applications (addressing the specific qualifications, desired qualities and areas of expertise), five professional references, current vitae, university placement/credential files, and other supportive materials should be sent to:

Dr. Robert C. Marcharek, Director
North Slope Higher Education Center
P.O. Box 69
Barrow, Alaska 99723
Telephone: (907) 852-7337

Deadline for receipt of applications: January 15. The successful candidates should expect to assume the position no later than April 1.

The North Slope Higher Education Center is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer and educational institution. Your application for employment with the NSHEC may be subject to Public Disclosure, if you are selected as a finalist.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARINGS

The U.S. Department of the Interior has prepared, for public review, a draft report of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge, Alaska, Coastal Plain Resource Assessment and Recommendation to the Congress of the United States and Legislative Environmental Impact Statement, pursuant to Section 1002(h) of the Alaska National Interest Lands Conservation Act and 1022(C) of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. The draft document contains a range of alternatives: leasing the entire area for oil and gas development; leasing a limited area; permitting additional exploration, including exploratory wells; taking no action regarding oil and gas activity, but including the area in the comprehensive conservation planning process for the Arctic refuge; or designating the coastal plain as wilderness. The report also examines the potential consequences of each alternative.

In holding hearings, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the lead agency in the public review program, solicits, from interested public(s), views and opinions on this draft report in order to assist the Secretary of the Interior in making a final decision on the recommendations to Congress for the future management of the Coastal Plain in the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge.

PUBLIC HEARINGS

Anchorage — Mon., Jan. 5, 1987
Egan Convention Center, beginning at 9 a.m.

Kaktovik — Tues., Jan. 6, 1987
City Council Building, at 7 p.m.

Washington, DC — Thurs., Jan. 9, 1987
Auditorium, Interior Bldg., 18th & C Streets, 1:30 p.m.

Written and oral testimony will be accepted at the public hearings and will be transcribed for the official record. All comments and testimony received prior to January 23, 1987, will be considered in the preparation of the final report of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge, Alaska, Coastal Plain Resource Assessment and Recommendation to the Congress of the United States and Legislative Environmental Impact Statement.

Comments should be addressed to the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service

Attn: Division of Refuge Management,
