

Students get round-trip tickets

MarkAir is offering every graduating Alaska high school senior a travel certificate good for round-trip travel to any of the 20 MarkAir hubs, according to MarkAir.

The certificates are being awarded in recognition of the students' hard work.

"High school graduation is a major accomplishment, and we at MarkAir want to recognize that effort," said Larry Anderson, vice president for marketing and sales.

Established in 1986, the program will provide more than 6,000 certificates to graduating seniors this year. The certificates are distributed to the high schools in May and are available to students at the end of the school year.
