JUNEAU—Governor Keith H. Miller has congratulated Alaska State Senator Terry Miller (R-North Pole) upon being nominated by the University of Alaska for selection as one of America's ten outstanding young men of 1969.

"The nomination itself recognizes your achievements in serving Alaskans as one of the youngest and most outstanding State Senators in Alaska's history," the Governor said in a telegram to the 25-year-old legislator.

"All of us can take pride in the accomplishments of a graduate of the University of Alaska," the Governor said.

Anchorage Community College on Expansion

ANCHORAGE—Students and faculty began using the new buildings at the Anchorage Community College this month with more than 2,400 students attending day and evening classes.

The college, one of seven in the University of Alaska system, is in the institutional section of Anchorage east of Lake Otis Road and north of Providence Road. The $3 million campus includes five buildings with 120,000 square feet of floor space.

Eugene F. Short, dean of the college, said the ACC library with 32,000 volumes was moved to the new campus in two and one-half days. He said the college would be moving into its new buildings in phases.

The complex includes facilities for general classrooms, vocational-technical courses, administrative offices, library and a future food service unit.

Short said the college operates the year around with two 14-week semesters and a 13-week summer semester. In addition the school offers numerous short courses which arise through local, state, and federal education programs.

The campus operated for several years at the West Anchorage High School campus during the evening hours. ACC also cooperates with the Anchorage Borough School District in offering vocational-technical courses.

The staff at ACC includes about 25 full-time teachers, about 25 vocational-technical staff and about 100 part-time teachers.

Short said the college has had about a 20 per cent growth in enrollment during each of the last three years. He said, however, that he expects a larger percentage of growth next year.

The school was started in 1954 as a cooperative effort by the university and the then Anchorage Independent School District. The academic courses offered by the college are equal to those of the university.

Educational— Satellite TV Site Sought on Kodiak

WASHINGTON—RCA Global Communications is sending technical personnel to Kodiak to determine a satisfactory site for a satellite television receiver station for a proposed pilot program using NASA's ATS-1 satellite, according to U.S. Senator Mike Gravel.

Gravel outlined the nine-month pilot program in the U.S. Senate last July. The program is designed to bring educational and cultural television on a limited basis to several cities in Alaska.

RCA's action is a "key step in bringing educational and public television into selected corners of Alaska for a meaningful experiment," Senator Gravel said.

"The pilot program is vital to Alaska if the state is to bridge a gap in communications that is second to none in the United States," he said.

Senator Gravel notified Dr. Charles Northrop, Executive Director of the Alaska Broadcasting Commission, of RCA's decision.

Industry officials will meet with Kodiak Borough Chairman Jo Hajdu, Kodiak Mayor Peter Resoff and Kodiak City Manager Roy Goodman early next week.

RCA's ground station, which includes a 42-foot antenna, is now located on the Island of Guam and the company is working with the Alaska Congressional Delegation to formulate plans for transferring the equipment to Kodiak, Senator Gravel said.
