COORDINATOR POSITION

CROSS-CULTURAL EDUCATION FIELD FACULTY SUPPORT COORDINATOR. The University of Alaska, Fairbanks is seeking qualified applicants for the position of Field Faculty Support Coordinator in the Cross-Cultural Education Development Program (X-CED), Department of Education, a field-based B.Ed. degree program. Applicants must have advanced training and/or extensive experience (Master's required; Doctorate preferred) utilizing a cross-cultural interdisciplinary perspective in the field of education or a closely related field. Prior cross-cultural experience required, preferably in Alaska. Prior public school and/or university teaching experience highly desirable.

The field faculty support coordinator is an academic faculty position responsible for providing statewide support for a field-centered, cross-cultural teacher education program. Specific responsibilities include: (1) Participating in the development and implementation of a four-year B.Ed. instructional program for delivery throughout Alaska; (2) Teaching statewide field-delivered courses within areas of expertise; (3) Providing academic and administrative support to the field faculty, when based in Fairbanks; and (4) Assuming responsibility for rural field center activities on a semester-by-semester basis while regular field faculty assume campus responsibilities. This position is based in Fairbanks with work assignments rotating to field centers throughout rural Alaska on a semester-by-semester basis. Extensive travel is required.

Field faculty appointments average 10½ months starting around mid-July, 1983. Contract renewal is subject to satisfactory performance on all levels of University responsibility, and standard renewal procedures. Successful candidate will be assigned to the professional education faculty of the University of Alaska, Fairbanks, and will be granted academic rank and salary commensurate with individual training and experience.
