To succeed in business,
 you have to start with
 the right
 mix.

Cook Inlet Region, Inc. represents more than just one element of Alaska's Native heritage. Our shareholders are a mix of Eskimos, Aleuts, and Indians from every region of Alaska.

And whether we are investing in natural resource development, real estate, maintenance and construction services, or broadcast communications, we rely on the unique blend of heritage and experience that makes up CIRI.

So when someone asks the secret of our success, we like to say our diversity is our strength.
