

Board of Game cancels meeting in Anchorage

JUNEAU — The Alaska Board of Game announced last week that it has canceled its summer meeting, scheduled to begin today in Anchorage.

The board had scheduled the meeting to consider 100 subsistence proposals it had deferred action on during its March meeting. In light, however, of the uncertainty surrounding the subsistence issue, the board has decided to further postpone its consideration of the subsistence proposals.

A new meeting date will be announced, pending the outcome of the Legislature's special session on subsistence and a ruling from the State Superior Court on whether the state's subsistence law, without a rural preference, is still valid.

Those who want more information may contact Larry Jones, deputy director of the Division of Boards, 465-4110 in Juneau.
