

Gov. Egan Sends Evaluation Team—

Bristol Bay to Be Checked Because of Poor Fish Season

JUNEAU—Governor William A. Egan announced he has directed that a state evaluation team visit Bristol Bay communities to determine what state assistance will be required by Alaskans who have been affected by the poor fishing season.

"My office has already made a preliminary study of the situation, and I have directed that additional determinations be made on the spot by all state departments concerned," Governor Egan said.

"The state intends to provide every possible assistance to Alaskans who are affected by the poor Bristol Bay fishery this season, and in other areas where salmon runs were poor," Egan said.

The team will be composed of representatives of the Office of the Governor, the Department of Health and Social Services, the Department of Community and Regional Affairs, and the Department of Labor.

They will meet with the city councils of Dillingham and Bethel, and with the village councils of Togiak, Manokotak, Egegik, Naknek, Levelock, New Stuyahok, Koliganek, and Nondalton.
