

Arthur Redfox and Evan Aketachunak, Emmonak residents, discovered two lost Alaska State Troopers during a recent hunting trip. Redfox and Aketachunak had seen the troopers Jan. 13 and had heard shots. Because the troopers were so far from the two, they thought the shots just came from other hunters. Redfox said, however, he did get a strange feeling about the men and shots, so Jan. 14 he went looking for the troopers. He found one of them walking and got directions to the camp. The troopers had been lost. After they refueled, the troopers, Aketachunak and Redfox headed for Emmonak. The two Emmonak men were given breakfast and a tank of gas for their efforts.
