

American Indian Market opens third season Oct. 3

Oct. 3-5 will open the third season of the American Indian Market-Phoenix.

Held on the first weekend of each month from October to May, the market offers traditional and contemporary arts and crafts, authentic Indian foods, Indian dances, information sources and cultural displays.

It has become the only monthly showcase on the Native American's craft, food and dance in North America. Each month a different tribal culture is featured. Tribes from throughout North America have been represented in the past, including Aztec, Cherokee, Papago and Zuni nations.

All Indian artists are invited to participate in this market. Those who want more information may contact Fred Snyder or Carole Garcia at the Caravan Travel Inn, 3333 E. Van Buren, Phoenix, Ariz. 85008.
