

Laborers trust fund to receive $100,000

The Alaska Laborers Training Trust Fund in Anchorage will receive $100,000 over the next year to plan and develop new job safety and health training and education programs, the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration announced recently.