

APU students help Anchorage business

As part of their introduction to the real world of marketing, Alaska Pacific University marketing students are trying to smoke out potential customers for an Anchorage restaurant chain this spring.

At the request of Mike Dennis, regional manager for Skipper's Restaurants, APU students are conducting a market study of current clientele of Skipper's five Anchorage area outlets.