

---

Revenue Sharing Change?

The Department of the Interior last Monday filed a brief with the Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs on the 90-10 revenue sharing formula with Alaska.

The brief advanced the position that Congress and the federal government has the power to alter the formula.

The brief was filed in response to a request by the Senate Interior Committee.

An Interior Department spokesman, who did not wish to be quoted, indicated that there might be a change in policy concerning revenue sharing in Alaska.