Pattie Koutchak of Covenant High prepares for competition in the seal hop event. Koutchak hopped 94 feet, ten inches, which put her in a tie for third with Rosie Grindall.

Friends check on Nick Inga of Anchorage, after he subjected his knuckles to 100 feet of punishment in the seal hop event, winning him third place.

Clinton Johnson of Nome seal hops 121 feet, five inches, for first place in boys competition.

After setting a new world's record of 110 inches in the one-foot-high-kick, Brian Randazzo of Anchorage's East High tried for 111 inches. He got the height, as seen here, but his foot went slightly to the right of the ball.

A happy Randazzo accepts joyous congratulations after officially becoming the new world record holder in the one-foot-high kick.
