

Ingraham to Coordinate Brandley Race

Kent Brandley, candidate for the State House of Representatives from this district, said this week that attorney Millard Ingraham has agreed to be his campaign coordinator.

Ingraham, 34, has been active in Democratic party in Alaska for many years. Ingraham is married and has lived in Fairbanks for seven years.

Ingraham said he hoped that many small campaign contributions would come in to aid Brandley. He said "Friends to Elect Kent Brandley to the House of Representatives" would be receiving mail at PO Box 1364 in Fairbanks.

In other developments, Ingraham called the first in a series of private brainstorming sessions of Brandley's supporters and said position papers and campaign strategy would be derived from this group of young brain trusters.

Ingraham said Brandley would travel to bush villages with other candidates, local and statewide, exchanging transportation for help with publicity releases. Brandley is a newsman and a free-lance writer.
