

Gov. Hammond To Attend TT Annual Banquet

Alaska Governor Jay Hammond sent word through his office that he will be able to attend the Tundra Times annual banquet to be held on October 23, 1975 at the Discovery Ballroom of the Captain Cook Hotel in Anchorage.

Hammond had sent word earlier that he might not be able to attend the yearly feast.

In the meantime the Alaska congressional delegation has been contacted. Senator Stevens said he would not be able to attend but might be represented by his wife Anne. Senator Mike Gravel and Congressman Don Young are not sure they'd come to the banquet. If not, they may send representatives.

In the meantime, also, Tundra

Times board members and staff are busy lining up regional Native corporations and sub-organizations.

The "Permafrost Trio," the Native band that will perform for the dance after the banquet, the special cocktail hour and other arrangements are well along in preparations.

Word has also been received that the editor of the Tundra Times Howard Rock will be wearing a tuxedo. Doris Dooley of Anchorage has already dropped by the TT office to take Rock's measurements.
