

TUNDRA TIMES 9TH ANNIVERSARY BANQUET

ACCEPTING ROCKY—Jeane Dixon, keynote speaker at the ninth annual Tundra Times banquet, accepts the gift of Rocky, five week old male mufe puppy given by the Husky Corporation of Anchorage. Rocky, named after Howard Rock, left Fairbanks for Los Angeles Monday to be the mascot of a Southern California airline owned by Mrs. Dixon's sister.

FLOYD'S MESSAGE—Floyd Westerman, Pine Ridge Sioux from South Dakota, told banquet-goers Saturday of a "World Without Tomorrow." The popular Indian vocalist earned greater fame with his release last year of the album, "Custer Died For Your Sins."

MAJOR POLICY SPEECH—Governor William A. Egan surprised and deeply moved the audience by delivering a major policy speech at the banquet. Listening attentively to the speech are, to the right of the Governor, master of ceremonies James Thomas, and Tundra Times editor Howard Rock.

YUPIK BALLADEER—John Angaiak, a Yupik Eskimo from Tununak on Nelson Island, sang a selection of songs in Yupik and one in English. Angaiak, a student at the University of Alaska majoring in sociology and art, has released one record of Yupik songs.

GEE, SHEEFISH—This baked sheefish was served Saturday during a luncheon reception for Jeane Dixon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Bergt

The fish was prepared by Mrs. Bergt and Mrs. Thomas Richards. Mrs. Dixon had a second helping.

NINETY-FIVE, DO I HEAR A HUNDRED—Jimmy Bedford, University of Alaska journalism professor and comptroller on the Tundra Times board of directors, auctioned off eight dozen yellow roses and Laura Bergt's qiviut vest during the banquet. Bedford's auctioneering talent brought the Tundra Times $275 for those items.
