

CEDC Sales Inc. is the

Alaska Commercial Co.

Bought and controlled by Anchorage based Community Enterprise Development Corporation of Alaska

When the people of rural Alaska (C. E. D. C.) purchased The Alaska Commercial Company we faced a challenge. It was to broaden our services to rural Alaska's villages without government funds or guarantees in our day to day operations.

Our first step to growth was in Kotzebue. The Alaska Commercial Company, together with the local village corporation (Kikiktagruk Inupiat Corporation) opened a 17,000 square foot trading post. K. I. C. owns the trading post and leases it to Alaska Commercial. The village corporation (K. I. C.) also receives a substantial share of our store profits

In Kotzebue we established lower prices, better service and higher quality goods (including fresh meat). Our joint venture with the village of Kotzebue was a success because we met the challenge together.
